As part of our work towards achieving Eco School status, we're encouraging the children to care for their environment. The Great Big School Clean starts today and runs until the end of the month.

We've pledged to pick up at least one bin bag full of rubbish, per class. Keep Britain Tidy are also running a competition to see who can find the oldest piece of discarded rubbish. This helps to demonstrate how long it takes for plastic and packaging to break down!

Check out the back page and have a go at guessing how old the pictured packaging is! The results will shock you, but it gives a very visual indication of how long pollutants take to break down. The answers are at the bottom of page 2.

FRIDAY 15 MARCH

GUESS THE DECADE

LOOK AT THESE PHOTOGRAPHS OF ITEMS FROM THE VINTAGE LITTER MUSEUM - CAN YOU GUESS THE DECADE THEY WERE MADE?

Revlon deodorant bottle

LITTER LASTS A LIFETIME

Litter does not clean itself away. It can take years to degrade, harming wildlife and their habitats. The Vintage Litter Museum showcases pieces of litter collected by litter-pickers to teach people about the issue of litter. All of the items were produced, and likely littered in the last century! Can you guess the decade each of these items were made in?

Bird's Eye plastic chip bag

Dairy Crest glass milk bottle

Disco's crisp packet

Dairy Crest strawberry yoghurt pot

Fairy liquid plastic bottle
